

Brother Fights Publisher's Will; Reveals CASSIER'S DOUBLE LIFE

WOMAN WHO ADOLPH CASSIER SAYS IS LOUIS CASSIER'S LAWFUL WIDOW
This photograph was taken when Mrs. Severns was nineteen years old.

Adolph Declares He Believes Louis Was Never Divorced from Gertrude Spooner.

Later Lived With Another Mrs. Cassier, and Left Her His Property.

Three women, a man and a three-year-old girl are contesting the will of the late Louis P. Cassier, the well-known magazine publisher, who was killed in the railroad wreck at Salisbury, England. Starring developments are expected at the first hearing, which is to be held in New York next Thursday. Adolph Cassier, a brother, a Boston confessor, for his three-year-old daughter, Agnes Louise Cassier, Mrs. Helen Cassier, William of South Boston, and Gertrude E. Spooner of North Scituate, are to fight the will of the dead publisher, which left his estate of some $250,000 to Mrs. Agnes Nicholas Cassier of Transvaal, China.

The case is to be fought in the courts by the Boston attorneys, Blake Greenough and H. H. Greenough. The story told by Adolph Cassier about the double life led by his brother has excited the dead man's friends. That his life was not above board and open to the world had never been declared by the influential publishers and authors with whom he had come in contact almost daily for the past score of years. Louis P. Cassier was born in Dedham, and today his former friends there are talking with the keenest interest in the great struggle which is to be fought for his property.

YACHTS START IN FOG, BUT ARE CALLED BACK

THEY IGNORE POSTPONEMENT SIGNAL IN THE FIFTH RACE FOR ROOSEVELT CUP.

By Stone Wireless. ON BOARD TWO MERCURY, off Marblehead, Sept. 10.—In a thick fog, but with a smart east wind blowing across knots an hour, which forced the Ask and Wampanoag to reef their mainmasts, these boats and the Vim, which sailed under full canvas, went off on a false start in the fifth race for the Roosevelt Cup. The fog set in just before starting time and the committee hoisted a signal postponing the race, but the skippers either didn't see the signal or ignored it and crossed the line. They disappeared in the fog and the committee had to send a tug after them to bring them back. These three boats—two American and one German—were all that were left in the race, the other three being eliminated by the racing committee of the Eastern Yacht club because they did not win a race in the preliminary. The wind kicked up quite a sea for the little boats and had increased from twelve knots an hour at which they started to twenty knots. The competitors put out two reef signals. Before the preparatory signal the Wampanoag put in two reefs and just before the start her crew put in a third. The crew of the Ask put in one reef, but up to the time of the start the Vim decided to take chances with full sail.

Fog Delays Start. A fog set in just before the scheduled time for the start, and the committee ordered to wait while before sending the boats away on their race. The entrance was signalled a bell to windward due east for the first leg, a rough outboard for the second, making a rough circle by west for the third leg. This was the signal for the start, making a total distance of fifteen miles. Although the postponement flag was hoisted on the committee tug and no starting signal was given, the three yachts crossed the line on the starboard tack and lay over in the best to windward. The Ask was first across the line, the

CUBAN BATTLE RAGES; RESULT IS IN DOUBT

FORTIFICATIONS HAVE TILY THROWN UP TO MEET ATTACK ON HAVANA.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 10.—Fighting between the loyal troops and insurgents is still in progress, none of the insurgents in the Plaza del Rio province and the outcome appears to be in doubt. Communication has been cut, making it impossible to get accurate or detailed information as to just what has occurred. In the first instance, the government forces, according to the most reliable reports, scored a victory. Insurgents still remained in the Plaza del Rio province, and the position of the loyal troops and the general situation of the battle is extremely critical.

Attack on Capital. A second force has left Havana practically without defenders except the police and constables. Reports are exaggerated that an insurgent attack will be made upon the capital, Havana, and the loyal troops are being sent to meet the attack. The loyal troops are being sent to meet the attack. Most Terrible Massacre Since Kishineff Now in Progress in Polish City—Women—Special Victims of Blood-Mad Troops of Czar.

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 10.—More bloody and atrocious than any massacre since Kishineff is that which has been in progress at Siedlce since Saturday evening. Authentic reports reaching here to day tell of terrible carnage.

Atrocities of the most awful character have been committed, and the end is not yet in sight. Fighting has been resumed to-day, and it is feared there will be terrible loss of life and untold damage to property before order can be restored.

Over 300 persons have been killed and thousands wounded. Many of the victims are women. For the most part the victims are Jews, although many Christians who tried to protect helpless Hebrews from the fury of the troops attacking them were shot down or bayoneted.

During the outbreak Jewish women were made the special victims of shooting and stoning. Many were attacked in the open streets. Troops, pursued young Jewish girls, ran shrieking through the streets, crying "Jewish prostitute!"

BURNED IN THEIR HOMES. Jewish homes have been set on fire in many streets in Siedlce, and in some cases women and children have been burned to death in their homes. At one time it was feared that the city would be wiped out by the fire.

First Anniversary Week Celebration

The mightiest and cheeriest birthday store celebration New England ever knew is now in progress.

The entire store at this writing (9 o'clock) is an inspiring scene of activity. On every floor devoted to selling merchandise there is the most enthusiastic concourse of shoppers any store has ever welcomed. The response of a year ago when this store first opened its doors to the people of this vicinity was wholly beyond precedent. It was a splendid ovation to the establishment in Boston of one of the world's greatest stores—but today's attendance completely overshadows any store event in New England's history. The whole store is brilliant with its splendid values in Fall goods; in its elaborate interior and exterior decorations, in that atmosphere of bracing briskness which is at all times so tonic.

For weeks preparations have been under way—goods have been coming in from every part of the world, and many groups noted for their superiority get their first showing to-morrow—others are as yet unpacked, but will be given space as quickly as possible.

Each day since our opening a year ago has been a marked triumph. Each day has established a closer community of interest and regard for this magnificent retail enterprise, and to-day's unparalleled attendance is a positive recognition of our bargain supremacy, an endorsement of our methods that presages still greater success than we had anticipated. The New England public has chosen its store—has hastened to bestow its overwhelming approval on a business house conducted along the lines of sustaining the highest traditions of Puritan honesty and integrity.

And the anniversary sale continues all this week.

Listen to the orchestral concerts by the Empire Women's Orchestra of 20 pieces—the store presents a scene of splendor almost dazzling in its effectiveness—the columns of the main floor are studded with thousands of electric lights partially concealed by autumn leaves, the whole imparting a mellow radiance that evokes enthusiastic comment from every beholder—every floor has donned its best bib and tucker to welcome the thousands whose co-operation and loyal support makes this store the wonder of American retailing. Come!

Store open until 5:30.

Editor BORTON AMERICAN:
While government control and ownership of public utilities is in the air, and the directions are penetrating the thinking of the people, the weak and wavering populace, the time seems opportune to set a word in behalf of free enterprise and the rights of the individual. The financial persecutions and obliquities now being visited upon the individual citizen within the last three weeks have been so severe and so unrelenting that they are assured to be an unusual degree public opinion will be aroused to the point of demanding that money be paid by individuals and companies of their stored holdings. The government is now in a position to spend money in its broadest expenditure, and to make the individual citizen, and the large corporation, make the much-needed prosperity of the country.

No one seems to have the authority to stop the government from spending money reforming from the foundation, or the government is not to be held responsible for three recent failures are anything more than the individuals immediately involved, by the government, and the government is responsible in numbers and magnitude, and the government is responsible for the financial and industrial sequence to all such in the direction of the government. The financial persecutions and obliquities have been so severe and so unrelenting that they are assured to be an unusual degree public opinion will be aroused to the point of demanding that money be paid by individuals and companies of their stored holdings. CHARLES C. CLEMENT

A detailed black and white political cartoon. A large, muscular tiger is shown in a state of distress, its body pierced by three arrows. One arrow is labeled 'LIQUOR DEALERS ASSOCIATION'. The tiger's head is turned back, and its mouth is open in a roar or cry. The word 'DRUNKENNESS' is written in large, bold, capital letters across the top of the tiger's back. The ground around the tiger is littered with broken glass bottles and several human skulls. In the bottom right corner, the artist's signature 'ROBERT CARTER' is visible. The overall style is that of a classic political cartoon, using symbolic imagery to critique the liquor industry.

Read this extract from an address to the public issued by the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association:

"We believe that it should be made a crime for a man to become intoxicated. We hold that no man has a right to deliberately overthrow his reason and render himself a dangerous factor in society, and therefore we would gladly welcome the passage of laws providing severe penalties for such offenses, and a firm, rigid enforcement without regard to wealth or influence of the offender."

There is the belief expressed by the men who deal in alcohol in various combinations. You may believe that what THEY say is based on actual knowledge. You may be sure that THEY hire men that do not consume their product to any extent. When you have a doctor confessing such a result for his medicine, LEAD THE MEDICINE ALONE.
